Come in and test its marvelous realism for yourself

An audience of 2800 New Yorkers completely baffled! An Official Laboratory Model did it—actually rivalled Anna Case, one of the world's most brilliant sopranos, in a startling test at Carnegie Hall, on March 10th, 1920.

In our store, you can hear an instrument exactly like this famous Official Laboratory Model. You can test it for yourself—and see what a truly perfect realism it attains. We have equipped ourselves to give Mr. Edison's unique Realism Test.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

The instrument used on March 10th, 1920, in Carnegie Hall, New York, was an exact duplicate of the original Official Laboratory Model on which Mr. Edison spent three million dollars in research work.

We, too, have an exact duplicate of this three million dollar original. We guarantee that it is capable of sustaining precisely the same test made on March 10th, in Carnegie Hall, New York City.

This guarantee will be given in writing, if you wish.

Our Budget Plan puts this guaranteed Official Laboratory Model within your reach. It's a thrifty way of buying. Ask about it when you come to hear the Realism Test.

SOLDIER MEMORIAL AT NORTH FAYSTON

Was Unveiled With Fitting Ceremony on Monday, May 31—Splendid Program Was Given.

On Monday, a regular old home day celebration occurred at the North Fayston schoolhouse, when the residents of the town, friends and old neighbors, nearly 500 of them, gathered to renew old acquaintances and to witness the dedication of memorial stone, which has been recently placed at the entrance of the cemetery in honor of the "boys of '61, Spanish war and World war boys, who enlisted from Fayston. This stone is a large slab of our native Vermont granite and has upon it the names of 82 "boys," who volunteered from Fayston to "do their bit."

At 10 o'clock the school children, bearing wreaths of evergreen, members of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and the khaki-clad boys marched from the schoolhouse to the cemetery and decorated the graves of the soldiers. At 11 o'clock the people gathered out of doors in front of a large platform, erected for the occasion, to listen to the dedicatory exercises. Seated on the platform were members of the G. A. R. and the American Legion. As the Waitfield band struck into the opening measures of the "Star Spangled Banner," the "boys" sprang to their feet and stood at attention, while the anthem was played, and Meriden Grandfield drew the folds of "Old Glory" from off the face of the monument. After this impressive ceremony Miss Evelyn Joslyn read an appropriate message from Mrs. Laura Brigham Boyce. This was followed by a short address by Rev. Remele of Waitfield, who spoke in his usual pleasing way. These exercises were then concluded by the singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

From noon until after 2 o'clock was taken up with visiting and partaking of the bountiful dinner served in the schoolhouse by the North Fayston ladies. A menu of baked beans, brown bread, salads, rolls, pickles, doughnuts, pies and coffee was served to about 400 people, and judging from the expressions of satisfaction heard on all sides, no one went away hungry.

At a little after two the people gathered again in front of the out-door platform to listen to the afternoon exercises, which were opened by a selection by the band and then followed a prayer by Rev. Haseltine of Waitfield. There were recitations by the school children of the North, Center and South Fayston schools. Lincoln's Gettysburg address, well delivered by Meriden Grandfield; a flag drill given by the primary children of the North Fayston school, which reflected great credit on both teacher and pupils. The vocal solos were much enjoyed and were rendered by both Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Forsy, Miss Dorothy Wisley and Mrs. J. P. Boyce and a very pleasing duet was sung by Miss Alice M. Henry and Mrs. Levi Nelson. The last number of the memorial program was given by the Kingsbury quartet and was received with its usual loud applause.

Then came the address of the day by the Hon. Frank Plumley of Northfield, who succeeded in renewing in us all a wonderful feeling of pride and gratitude for the "boys," who had offered "their all" for their country. The exercises then closed by the singing of "America" by everyone, and to the strains of martial band music the people began leaving for their homes, carrying with them the memory of a pleasant day, long to be remembered.

The following is a copy of the message sent by Mrs. Laura Brigham Boyce and read by Miss Joslyn:

Reminiscences of An Octogenarian.

How has sped the time? When have fled the years? The years pregnant with great events, so vital in the development of our beloved country and the world? In looking back to a century ago seem but recent occurrences. How vividly I recall the shock that came to every loyal heart when the news spread like wildfire through every town and hamlet, "Sumter has fallen!"

It was a shock because the north had never fully believed that the threats and bluster of the south, and the acute friction between the states really meant secession and warfare, and when the fact was forced on their reluctant comprehension, naturally great excitement prevailed. The north was totally unprepared for hostilities, other than the battle of words of which we were all too familiar. Our small standing army was composed largely of the southern born, the officers almost wholly so. When Lincoln called for 75,000 troops for "three months' service," it seemed to us like a large army and many confidently predicted, "the rebellion will be put down in 30 days."

So little did all the north, government included, comprehend the conditions we faced. But we learned our deadly lesson in the four years that followed when call after call came for volunteers as our armies were decimated by battle and disease. I wonder if there are white-haired veterans here who were members of Co. B, of the old 12th, the company that was largely recruited from this and the surrounding towns and who later had their drilling ground in Moretown, where their instructor patiently, and may I not say painfully, tried to install some military tactics into the awkward squad. I can vividly recall how the company looked in marching order with Uncle Tell Stoddard firing away for dear life, and I could never after hear the times he played so constantly without a vision of our marching boys with Captain Ores Wilde leading so straight and proud that he almost looked tall, although he was rather small of stature, and the noble form of Lieutenant Jones, who looked every inch a man. Little we thought that he was to be the first to die of Co. B, and I think first of the 12th regiment, only a few weeks after he was mustered in at Brattleboro. I remember the gloom that his fate cast over the hearts of wives and mothers of the members of Co. B, fearing and trembling, lest our own loved ones should be the next victims.

We had no organized Red Cross in those days but we women sped to meet and scrape for the use of the wounded in the hospitals, a practice now wholly obsolete and pronounced unsanitary.

Our surgeons did the best they knew in those days, but their methods to-day would be called very crude and inefficient. War is a terrible thing, there comes a time in the history of nearly all nations when they must choose between cowardly dishonor and warfare. Our Civil war had to be fought in no other way could the great wrong and injustice of slavery have been overcome, and in no other way could the union have been preserved. Only through the pain and agony of broken hearts and lives are great reforms generally established.

By cannon and sword and blood out-poured. From the loyal hearts of a million men. Was our wrong made right and freedom's might proclaimed from mountain top and glen. For many years we have been accustomed to meet together in the springtime to honor the memory of our brave soldiers, who fought for liberty and union. To them posterity owes a debt they can never repay. This year brings a fresh interest to our ceremonies in that there are added names to our heroes, those bright, young lads, who went over the seas to fight in the conflict against the blood-thirsty lust of conquest and inhumanity, such as the civilized world has never seen.

Many of our brave boys made the supreme sacrifice and are resting to-day under the poppies with the white crosses at their heads. Ours is the sacred duty to keep fresh their memory with those of their veteran comrades, who fought for a great principle more than half a century ago. To-day we dedicated a monument that shall bear their names down to future generations, when we too shall have joined the great majority. May we ever prove loyal to the flag for which they fought and for which so many of them died to preserve.

Laura Brigham Boyce.

BURN HOUSES TO END PLAGUE

Buildings on the Vera Cruz Municipal Dock and Other Structures Destroyed

FOUR NEW CASES DISCOVERED TO-DAY

Mexican Officials Hope for Speedy Arrival of Supplies from New Orleans

Vera Cruz, June 4.—Four new cases of bubonic plague were discovered here to-day. Three of the victims were soldiers and the fourth was an aged laundress.

One of the plague patients who was taken to the hospital a few days ago, died to-day. Two others are reported to be recovering.

Buildings on the municipal dock and several structures nearby were burned to-day by the authorities in an effort to eliminate possible centers of infection there. Officials express the hope that supplies to facilitate the fight against the plague, which were offered by the United States government early this week, will arrive soon from New Orleans.

GERMANS TAKE POLITICS HARD

One Party Threatens Its Opponents With Revolvers

MEETINGS BROKEN UP, CANDIDATES BEATEN

Independent Socialists Say They Will Seize Power by Violent Measures

London, June 4.—Ever-growing excitement marks the election campaign in Germany which ends on June 6. Independent socialists report that at a meeting in Mecklenburg the conservatives, when they could no longer sustain the debate, threatened their opponents with revolvers, and that the independent socialists and their supporters escaped being killed only by the intervention of the majority socialists, according to a Berlin despatch to the Exchange Telegraph company.

Complaint is made to the German ministry of home affairs, the despatch states, by the German National Land Union of Hesse that its meetings are systematically broken up, its candidates maltreated and its followers assaulted. Independent socialists are reported to make no secret of the fact that, should the election result fail to reach their expectations they will submit to the new parliament.

Kuelitz, the independent socialist leader, declared recently at a meeting in Berlin that in case the new parliament does not show a majority for the radical left the independent socialists will seize power by violent means. Daumig, another leader of the party, has declared that every member of the organization must understand that street fighting is unavoidable. "If the elections," he added, "do not give us our right, we will seize it by our might."

I AM GLAD TO ENDORSE PE-RU-NA

Glad to Try Anything
"Three years ago my system was a terribly run down condition and I was broken out all over my body. I began to be worried about my condition and I was glad to try anything which would relieve me. Peru-na was recommended to me as a fine blood remedy and tonic, and I soon found that it was worthy of praise. A few bottles changed my condition materially and in a short time I was all over my trouble. I owe my restoration to health and strength to Peru-na. I am glad to endorse it!"

WAITSFIELD

Interesting Exercises and Snappy Baseball Game Memorial Day.

Memorial day was observed in Waitfield on Saturday, May 29, as was to be expected with the Faysion celebration on Monday. In the forenoon the G. A. R. veterans, ex-service men and boy scouts visited the several cemeteries and placed wreaths and flowers on the graves of dead heroes. At 2 o'clock p. m., exercises were held in the high school building. Much credit is due those who took part. The speaker of the day was Principal G. L. Green of the agricultural school at Randolph Center. He gave a short, but interesting, talk on "True Patriotism" and some of the things the flag stands for, also touching on some incidents of the World war.

Last, but by no means the least, was the baseball game. The local town team met the snappy Aggie team from Randolph Center. The game was a corker from start to finish and everybody was on their toes every minute. It took 11 innings to decide which team was the victor, the local team losing 4 to 2. This concluded the program and, after filling up on ice cream at the Congregational church, all went home feeling the day had been well spent. Many from out of town were here for the exercises and sports.

Mrs. W. J. Graves and two children are spending several days with her parents in Randolph Center.

F. C. Carroll passed away at his home last Sunday morning about 9:30 o'clock. He had been in poor health for some time.

Vaughan Boyce of Norwich university spent the week end at E. E. Savage's.

Many from here attended the Memorial day celebration in North Fayston Monday.

E. A. Fisk, who is spending a few weeks with his sons in St. Johnsbury, suffered a slight shock recently. He is a little more comfortable at this writing.

The NEW Series HAYNES BROUGHAM

ROMANCE, social distinction, traveling luxury—these distinguished the Brougham in the old days of fine coaches and colonial manners.

In creating the new series Haynes Brougham all the richness of appearance and supreme comfort of travel have been restored, with the added improvement of motoring flexibility and power.

The charming lines of the body appeal as much as do the wide doors, the deep-upholstered divan which forms the rear seat, the exquisite fittings and all the other thoughtfully incorporated conveniences which are so greatly admired by car connoisseurs.

Exteriorly the new series Haynes Brougham conveys an expression of richness, exclusiveness and dignity.

The Haynes, America's first car, now exhibited by the Government at the Smithsonian Institution, National Museum, Washington, D. C., was invented, designed and built by Elwood Haynes, in 1893.

The beautiful Haynes Brochure is descriptive of all the new 1920 and new series Haynes character cars. This Brochure, and prices, will be mailed to you upon request.
